MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

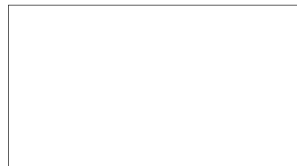

FROM:

SUBJECT: Claim for Lost Goods

Attached are documents relating to certain items that were stored with Fidelity Storage but were not contained in the effects delivered to my home last week. A check for the phonograph has already been received; the small rugs and rug runner were found. What remains to be settled is the missing cutlery and flatware.

These items actually consist of two different types: flatware worth about $50.00 purchased in 1977, and a set of imported cutlery worth $200.00 purchased in November 1982. The cutlery was virtually untouched; in any case, it was not available for use after June 1983, when my effects were packed up and the cutlery was found to be missing from the sea freight.

I am asking for reimbursement for the missing items.

STAT

We herewith acknowledge receipt of your claim.

Please be advised that we have the long rug runner listed on your storage inventory and feel that the cutlery is also in the storage shipment. We hesitate going into your storage lot to check for these items without your permission. We would much rather hold this portion of your claim in abeyance until you have your storage shipment removed from the warehouse.

In regards to the crushed phono, please provide us with a current replacement cost of a phono of equal and like quality or a repair estimate if the item can be repaired.

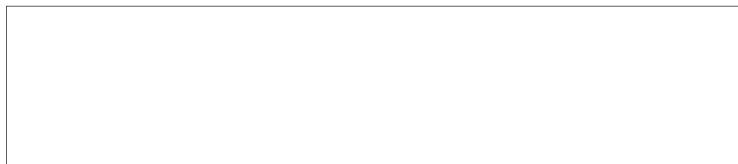

We will await your reply before proceeding further.

Sincerely,

FIDELITY STORAGE CORPORATION
